DETAILED ACTION

1. This communication is responsive to Amendment A, filed 1/30/03.
2. Claims 1-23 are pending in this application. Claims 1, 8, 16 and 18 are independent claims. This action is made Final.
3. The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.

Specification

4. The specification is objected to because they include the following reference sign(s) not mentioned in the description: In Fig. 2, reference character "230" and the element it designates are not described in the written description.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

5. Claims 1-23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as anticipated by Wagner et al. ("Wagner", US 6,169,911 B1).

As per claim 1, Wagner teaches a method of mapping electronic devices coupled to a wireless network comprising:

- (a) displaying a first list of names of a plurality of electronic devices coupled to the wireless network on a display screen of a first electronic device coupled to the wireless network (fig. 3A, "Address Book");

Art Unit: 2174

(b) displaying a visual cue on the display screen in response to receiving a wireless identification signal from a second electronic device, the cue identifying a default name associated with the second electronic device in the first list of names of electronic devices (col. 6, lines 40-41; an identification signal such as a telephone number from a second electronic device associated with the first electronic device "Address Book" appears in the display screen); and

(c) providing an option on the first electronic device to rename the default name associated with the second electronic device to a local name (col. 4, lines 55-58; user may access various functions of a telephone address book such as inherent functions of editing/renaming an address book).

As per claim 2, Wagner teaches the method of mapping electronic devices coupled to a wireless network comprising an option to send a wireless identification signal from the first electronic device to the second electronic device to cause a visual cue to be displayed on a display screen of the second electronic device, the cue identifying a default name associated with the first electronic device in a second list of names of a plurality of electronic devices coupled to the wireless network (claim 2 is similar in functionality as claim 1 except in reverse; therefore, the second electronic device of the same network has the same capabilities as the first electronic device).

As per claim 3, Wagner teaches the method of mapping electronic devices coupled to a wireless network comprising an option to send a wireless activation signal to a user-selected electronic device from the first list of names of electronic devices, the activation signal to cause the user-selected electronic device to identify itself using an audio or visual cue (figs. 3A and 4; upon receiving a signal from another electronic device, a visual cue "Sue Smith" is displayed).

Claim 4 is similar in scope to claim 3 and is therefore rejected under similar rationale.

As per claim 5, Wagner teaches the method of mapping electronic devices coupled to a wireless network comprising providing a data exchange option on the first electronic device to send a file to the second electronic device, the data exchange option identifying the second electronic device by the local name (see figs. 5, 8 and respective portions of the specification; stock information and stock quotes are sent in batch files over the wireless networking device).

As per claim 6, Wagner teaches the method of mapping electronic devices coupled to a wireless network wherein displaying the first list of names is done in response to a user of the first electronic device selecting a wireless network mapping menu option (fig 3A; selecting an address book).

Claim 7 is similar in scope to claim 1, and is therefore rejected under similar rationale.

Claim 8 is similar in scope to the combination of claims 3 and 5 and is therefore rejected under similar rationale.

Claim 9 is similar in scope to claim 1(b) and is therefore rejected under similar rationale.

Claim 10 is similar in scope to claim 1(c) and is therefore rejected under similar rationale.

Claim 11 is similar in scope to claim 12 and is therefore rejected under similar rationale.

Claim 12 is similar in scope to claim 5 and is therefore rejected under similar rationale.

Claim 13 is similar in scope to claim 6 and is therefore rejected under similar rationale.

Claim 14 is similar in scope to claim 1(c) and is therefore rejected under similar rationale.

Claim 15 is similar in scope to claim 8, and is therefore rejected under similar rationale.

Claim 16 is similar in scope to claim 1(b), and is therefore rejected under similar rationale.

Art Unit: 2174

Claim 17 is similar in scope to claim 3 and is therefore rejected under similar rationale.

Claim 18 is similar in scope to claim 1, and is therefore rejected under similar rationale.

Claim 19, which is dependent on claim 18, is similar in scope to claim 2 and is therefore rejected under similar rationale.

Claim 20 is similar in scope to claim 3 and is therefore rejected under similar rationale.

Claim 21 is similar in scope to claim 4 and is therefore rejected under similar rationale.

Claim 22 is similar in scope to claim 5 and is therefore rejected under similar rationale.

Claim 23 is similar in scope to claim 6 and is therefore rejected under similar rationale.

Response to Arguments

6. Applicant's arguments filed 1/30/03 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicants argued the following:

Wagner does not teach a visual cue associated with a default name and providing an option to rename the default name associated with the second device.

The Examiner disagrees for the following reasons:

The method of providing a visual cue associated with a default name as taught by Wagner is well known in the art in order to allow users some information as to the identity of the caller such as is the case with caller ID service (col. 6, lines 40-41 and lines 57-59).

Furthermore, Wagner provides an option to rename the default name as indicated by the different modes/functions that a user can access using a GUI to access various functions of a telephone address book such as inherent functions of editing/renaming entries in an address book (col. 4, lines 55-58; col. 5, lines 49-53; col. 6, lines 60-61).

Conclusion

7. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
